The New York Fat Cap (or NY fat cap), is a staple for graffiti artists the world over. It is a universally gifted cap that has both practical benefits such as efficient delivery of paint, as well as clean, crisp lines. Making it a great tagging cap, outlining cap, filling cap or object spraying cap. Also loved by urban artists, street artists, fine artists and DIYers doing art and craft projects, the NY fat cap has an average spray width of 4cm to 6cm which ejects paint evenly, leaving a balanced distribution of paint within its solid, clean line. Fitting on all female cans like Montana GOLD, Montana BLACK and Montana WHITE, its classification and naming as a "fat cap" was probably attained in a period of 70's-80's New York graffiti when there were not many fatter caps available. All though relatively thin for a fat cap, the NY fat cap allows users to create solid, even lines at a fast pace. The spray width changes when applied at a further distance from the substrate. For skinnier lines, spray from a closer distance. For wider lines, spray from a further distance.
